Sad Situations.

I remember being taken by my mother when I was a child to see a poor woman who was dying of a cancer. The disease was eating its way to a vital part and her doctor had given her a month as her utmost limit of life. She was preparing for her end in a way that seemed practical and prosaic enough, but that struck me as pathetic in its self-forgetfulness. She was sitting up in bed, with a basket beside her, finishing up the family mending, showing her eldest daughter-on whose thirteen-year-old shoulders the burden of household care was soon to fall-how to fell down seams in the little brother's knee patches and how to darn the heel of father's sock so that he would never feel the difference. She had impressed upon the girl how to make her father's favorite potato pone, how to manage her young sister when she got into the sulks, what to do for her father when he had his periodical fit of cramps—and everything else she could think of that would insure comfort in the humble home she was leaving. She had all the work planned which she would do during the short span of life that was given to her. Her burial clothes were folded away in a drawer with sweet basil leaves among them. I was reminded of the incident by reading in a paper recently of a man in Milwaukee who is preparing for something that is even more ter-rible than death-insanity. He will be vio-lently insane in a few weeks, and he knows it. Some time ago his skull was fractured; a gristle is fast forming about the cracked edges, which will surely press upon the brain and make him a maniac. He talks calmly and rationally of his approaching fate, and spends every moment of his brief term of sanity in making provision for his family when he shall no longer be able to care for them.—New York Fashion Bazar. BIG GAME.-According to the administration report of Java recently laid before the Dutch chambers portions of that island are being depopulated through tigers. In 1882 the population of a village in the southwest of the Bantam provinces was removed and transferred to an island off the coast in consequence of the trouble caused to the people by tigers. These animals have now become an intolerable pest in parts of the same pro-vince. The total population is about 600,-000, and in 1887 sixty-one were killed by tigers, and in consequence of the dread existing among the people it has been proposed to deport the inhabitants of the villages most threatened to other parts of the country where tigers are not so common, and where they can pursue their agricultural occupations with a greater degree of security. At present they fear to go anywhere near the borders of the forest. The people at present seem disinclined, or they lack the means and courage to attack and destroy means and courage to attack and destroy their enemy, although considerable rewards are offered by government for the destruc-tion of beasts of prey. In 1888 the reward for killing a royal tiger was raised to 200 florins. It appears also that the immunity of the tiger is in part due to superstition, for it is considered wrong to kill one unless he attacks first or otherwise does injury. Moreover, guns were always very rare in this particular district, and, since a rising a few years ago, have been taken away by the authorities altogether .- London Times.

FIGHT AT A FUNERAL.-There was a strange and startling scene at a funeral at Burlington, N. J., on Tuesday. Sometime ago William H. Bradley, a communicant of St. Paul's R. C. Church, joined Crusaders' Castle, Knights of the Golden Eagle. He was informed that he had broken the laws of his church, and that he must give up either the secret order or the church. He chose to relinquish the latter. On Sunday chose to relinquish the latter. On Sunday last Bradley died, and at his request arrangements were made for the funeral to take place from St. Mary's P. E. Church, with the Golden Eagles accompanying the remains. As the casket was being borne into the church Tuesday afternoon by the pall bearers, who were members of the Order, a number of Bradley's friends and relatives, who are devout Catholics, broke from the procession, seized the handles of the casket, and declared that the body should not enter the church. There was a brief struggle for possession of the coffin, but the pall-bearers assisted by other members of the Golden Eagle, succeeded in getting it inside the edifice, when the contention ceased.
